Praxis Europe is a community training organisation, who is passionate about improving lives of disadvantaged people in Birmingham, especially young people, women and unemployed adults living in Birmingham.

They promote and actively engage locals through the use of sports, fitness, healthy living, culture and creativity that then leads them to education and skills development and employment. Their motto is “Ideas into Action”.

Their vision is to support, train and teach marginalized and disadvantaged groups to find their voice, to be healthy, to learn and develop new skills that will help them to become positive contributors to society. They seek to expand peoples horizons through a positive active action led dialogue that leads to their re-engagement with mainstream options (education, training and employment). This is of particular importance to our disadvantaged client groups many of whom have special needs.
